This new series, the last ever written by James Otis, is a worthy successor to his extremely popular Colonial Series, published three years ago. These books tell in the author's own inimitably entertaining way, stories of the journeys made by those adventurous pioneers who were determined to push west either to found homes or to gain riches for themselves from the better opportunities offered in the new country. There were many hardships to be endured in making the long and tedious journeys through almost unbroken forests, across desolate prairies and over unbridged rivers, in fair and stormy weather; there were homes to be built, and there were fields to be cleared, while savage foes watched from the distance. All these hardships and all these adventures were experienced and related by children, and their great-grandchildren will enjoy and profit by reading of the struggles of the men who helped to build up this nation.

Antoine, although a mere lad in years, was able to guide a band of emigrants from St. Louis to Oregon; Benjamin worked his way from Massachusetts into the wild Ohio country and became a respected citizen of Marietta; Hannah was the dearest friend of Daniel Boone's daughter, Jemima, and traveled the Wilderness Road to Boonesborough; Martha lived through the "awfullness" of the California Trail and settled near San Jose; Philip started a sheep ranch in Texas and saw the fulfillment of his heart's ambition when that Republic was admitted as one of the United States; and Seth, often discouraged, at last became a successful and prosperous merchant of Denver.

SCHOOL-BOOK PUBLICATION.

The publication of school-books has become one of the most highly specialized of industries. It. is nearly a generation ago that the American Book Company, which opposing legislators like to call the school-book trust, was formed by the union of several of the leading educational publishers; and this great concern has specialized exclusively in this direction. It was supposed then, and it has since been taken for granted, that this so-called trust would monopolize educational publishing. On the contrary, while it has done an enormous business, the number of publishers issuing school-books has rather increased than diminished, and although general publishers have for the most part given up this specialty, there have developed and strengthened several rival publishers of first importance and the number of other educational publishers remains large.

The list of existing school-book publishers shows how far we are from having a "school-book trust." To go a step farther, we may say we believe there is not, and has not been, any arrangement between these rival houses for the keeping up of prices, the division of territory, the curtailment or control of production, or anything otherwise "in restraint of trade." There has been full competition in this special field—and we believe there always will be.

This specialization, to which the general houses maintaining educational departments are scarcely to be taken as exceptions, has produced noteworthy results and made the American school-book the most remarkable in the world. It may be that school-books can be bought at lower prices in other countries, but this overlooks the real elements of value in the American school-books. They are not only costly in their up-to-date editorial skill, which results in the supersedure of earlier series by successive later ones, but their illustrations and make-up are quite without parallel in other countries. The American school-book is a product in which many arts join to present an exceptional result, and from this point of view it can safely challenge the world.

This result has been achieved by keen endeavor to keep up with the increasingly high standard of education quite as much as by competition between rival houses.

In fact if there were a "school-book trust" and it had no rival, it is probable that its standards of excellence and of enterprise would nevertheless have been maintained, as the necessary outcome of the higher educational standard.

It is to the keenness of private enterprise that we owe these results, which would scarcely have been reached if school-book development had been on the lines of state or other government monopoly. This fact is altogether overlooked by the advocates of state publication of school-books. Considering their value, the prices of American school-books are phenomenally low, especially in comparison with books of general literature, and it is highly probable that if the several states had undertaken to develop each its own system of school-books, the actual cost would have been much higher. Prof. Sumner used to emphasize "the forgotten man" in what he said about taxation; and the advocates of state school-books are apt to overlook many forgotten figures. It is not fair to compare mere printing cost in such a case with the published book, although some states have found that even their printing costs were higher than publishers' prices. Allowance should be made for all the state employees and officials who directly or indirectly would take part in the production of state text-books, for the cost of buildings in which the printing and offices of employees are located, for the taxes which private producers would pay to the state and which the state loses when it produces for itself. These are only examples of figures which usually are ignored in the argument as to state text-books.

But after all it is not cost but efficiency which should count in a school-book. To economize on school-books in the uprearing of the coming generation would be as unwise as to buy cheap or damaged seed for the farmer's crops. What the American school needs and demands is the best text-book that can be produced, the most efficient educational tool. We print elsewhere a series of striking illustrations which bring home the unwisdom of limiting efficiency in a field where efficiency produces for the future larger crops than can be realized in mere physical conditions of seed sowing.

The Educational List, which is included in this issue, is in itself sufficient illustration and indeed proof of much of what we have said. The American school-book is a thing to be proud of, and no system of state production is likely to surpass or even equal the result.

It was hardly to be expected that the retrogressive members of Congress would sit quietly by while Post Master General Burleson proceeded to popularize the parcels post by his gradual but progressive removal of the burdensome restrictions with which it was initially encumbered. The question of using special parcels post stamps or no was not a serious one to the express companies; increase of the weight limit, as now contemplated, and decrease of the rate would be very serious. So both sides are quietly arming for a new fray—in which it may be predicted the advocates of parcels post extension will win out, for the people like the parcels post, and the more they have of it the more they want.

As to the Post Master General's power to act in the present instance there would seem to be little doubt. The parcels post law itself distinctly states that the Post Master General, "subject to the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission," "is authorized to reform from time to time such classification, weight limit, rates, zone or zones or conditions, or either, in order to promote the service to the public." English could hardly be clearer. There is some little talk around the capital of Mr. Burleson's "usurpation of Congressional prerogative." We venture that the general public has very little use for "prerogative" if it is used as an excuse to deprive it of what it wants.

UNIFORM ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS IN ENGLISH, 1913-1919.

EDUCATIONAL TOOLS—NEW AND OLD.

By ALLEN GRANT ODELL.

There is a certain parent who takes a reasonably broad, intelligent and sympathetic interest in the health and welfare of his boy. He once decided that that boy should have the finest set of woodworking tools, suitable for the use of a lad, which could be bought. This resolution meant not only his determination that the boy should receive the benefits of the trained eye and hand, but it also meant that he wanted the boy, even at an early age, to absorb something of the ideal of usefulness. To be sure, even with the father this notion was somewhat hazy, but it was moderately compelling and it led him to the hardware shop. He insisted that the tools, as regards size, weight and simplicity of function, should be adapted to the boy's needs, but they should in no sense be toys. They should be of the best material so that the danger of injury would be reduced to a minimum and they should be modern in design, reflecting in some degree the progress of recent years in the carpenter's art. Of course, the dealer had no tools which met this unusual demand. So thoroughly, however, was the father bent on achieving nothing short of his idea that he told the dealer to have a special set of tools made for him, which should yield the desired results. The dealer warned him that this plan would involve much expense. He showed him several sets in stock, which though old in design and not especially sturdy in structure, were at least most reasonably priced. But the father laid down this final dictum as the essence of the creed which his thinking over the subject had caused him to formulate:

"I have to economize whenever I can, consistently, but when the health and safety of my boy are concerned, nothing is too good."

Now it happened the same evening at home while the spirit of self-satisfaction was still upon him, that his wife casually announced that Charles must have a new arithmetic by order of the teacher for the next term's work. For some reason this announcement had a most marvelous effect upon the thoughtful parent. To be sure, his cigar bill for the day had amounted to more than the cost of the arithmetic, but here was a principle involved.

"What, another arithmetic!" he exclaimed. "Why, he hasn't half worn out the old one, and it was only last year that they made him buy a new grammar. There is something very strange about these frequent changes. To my way of thinking, an arithmetic is an arithmetic. I had not heard that the multiplication table had been changed since I used to study it. There are books in this house that you and I studied. They taught us all the arithmetic we needed and instead of getting another one, it would be much more sensible to take these old ones and use them up."

The wife meekly suggested that she had seen the principal of the school who had informed her that the book which he proposed to introduce embodied certain new methods which had been worked out by educational experts and tested with satisfactory results. The father insisted, however, that his boy did not want frills; he wanted arithmetic.

"The old kind of addition and subtraction, like the old religion, was good enough for me, and it ought to be good enough for the boy."

The boy got his eighteen-dollar set of tools, and although it came hard, he also got his thirty-five cent arithmetic.

Two directors of a large manufacturing plant were returning to their suburban homes from a meeting of their Board. They were congratulating themselves upon their success in securing a vote in favor of equipping the plant with improved machinery. One of the men was enjoying a particularly large measure of self-satisfaction because of the fact that his plea for efficiency had turned the tide of opposition. He had said: "I am as strong an advocate of economy as any one here, but the proposed measure means increased efficiency and we cannot sacrifice anything which makes for efficiency, for efficiency in the long run means dividends."

But the letters which spell the word "dividends" were not always dancing before their minds and their interest in the affairs of their town placed them perhaps above the average standard of citizenship. One of the men reminded the other that there would be a meeting of the school board that week, and he added that the principal of the high school had recommended the introduction of a new history and a new text-book on civics. This was a free text-book town. The books were furnished to the pupils by the municipality. The champion of modern factory equipment replied that he supposed it was about time to look for evidences of some slick school book agent's linguistic skill.

"It is most remarkable that we need to change books so often now-a-days," he added.

"If anything important has happened since that history was written and the teacher doesn't know enough to tell the pupils about it, I guess our local printer can supply the deficiency with a slip of paper and a half dozen lines of type."

His companion apparently concurred, but suggested that the principal had been talking a good deal recently about certain new ideals and view-points in the study of history and civics.

"He says the child now studies these subjects from the view-point of his own position as a social factor and with reference to his environment. Social efficiency is the keynote. He learns to think in terms of the community—and all that sort of thing. He says that certain ideas have been worked out by experts at the teachers' college and that a book to be modern in spirit must embody the results."

"Oh, the faddists have been at it again," replied the other, "and I suppose our children have got to be the 'dog' that they try the fads on. I have an idea that after all, one book is about as good as another and that this talk about new theories and methods is mostly rubbish."

The factory was equipped with up-to-date machinery, but the school board, acting upon the advice of these two influential citizens, voted to continue the books in use.

In a certain state a bill favoring uniform text-books for use throughout the state was before the legislature. A professor in the state university happened to be talking with a member of the lower house.

"I presume this bill will give you the chance to make the speech of your life," the professor suggested. "There's a vital note to be sounded on the subject of good schoolbooks, and it isn't often heard in legislative halls. I believe you are the man to sound it. You have put in some good licks for modern school buildings and sanitary equipment. You've a reputation for being a good deal of a patriot. You know how to wave the American flag at the right time. Here's a chance for you to say something about the superiority of the American text-book. I am assuming, of course, that you know the schoolbooks of this country both as regards mechanical make-up and subject matter are immeasurably superior to those of any other country. Here's an opportunity for you to take a firm stand for good books for the children of our state, for modern books, attractive books, the very best tools we can get for moulding the minds of our future citizens. There's something worth fighting for, something that would make your constituents proud of you."

"Say," replied the legislator, "I guess you don't know my constitutents. They don't want good books; they want cheap books. At least, that's what I always tell them I'm working for when I go down for a reelection, and they always send me back. I'm committed to the proposition that this state must have cheaper books."

It got them, and no one who examines them critically will deny that they are cheap.

That these are typical cases hardly any observing person will deny. The theory underlying these and other similar cases which will readily suggest themselves—namely that a book is a book, and the cheaper it may be had and the longer it may be used from generation to generation, therefore the better—presents one of the strangest of present-day phenomena.

If we consider the first case that was used as an illustration, our experience will easily convince us that just such parents are found by the score in every community. In fact, it apparently has always been regarded as a sort of parental prerogative to grumble and protest whenever an attempt is made to keep the schools supplied with books which shall represent a fair degree of modern method and effectiveness. One would suppose that a parent, instead of having to be driven into such acquiescence, would take the initiative in demanding that the most modern and effective implements be placed in the hands of his children. He would see to it that his boy or his girl had nothing short of the very best product of the author's mind and the book-maker's art. On the contrary, the parent most alert in procuring the means for conserving and enhancing the physical well-being of his child is often the most lax and short-sighted with reference to the implements used in the child's training for mental efficiency and cultural advancement. No tool too good for the training of the hand and the development of the body, but anything good enough for the training of the mind! In other words, an arithmetic is an arithmetic; a book is a book. It is true that the multiplication table hasn't changed, although the table as such has sunk into comparative insignificance. The law of gravitation and other physical laws have not changed either, but an adherence to the practice of drawing all of the water we use by hand in buckets is hardly the test of our faith in the immutability of nature's laws. Where the multiplication table was once memorized with little gain to the pupil in mental power, the principles are now gradually and logically developed. But how many parents interest themselves in this phase of text-book instruction?

Hardly less typical than the case of the conscientious parent, as he doubtless regarded himself, are those of the corporation directors. The first to take advantage of the latest and most improved methods in the securing of industrial efficiency, these men are often the last to recognize the importance of applying similar principles to education. Their position is almost incomprehensible, when one comes to think of it. They would go straight to the specialist with any question affecting their health or that of their families, or any technical question bearing upon a phase of industrial progress; and yet in the field of education, they set their laymen opinions—their common sense views, they would perhaps call them— in opposition to those of the educational specialists, the men who have spent a large part of their lives in the study of educational problems and in the testing of those problems in the class room. In the name of reason, why do we have our teachers' colleges, our departments of education in the universities, and our training schools, if the results of this expenditure of money and of human effort are to count for nought? The text-book is the practical embodiment of the results of this specialized effort. More truly than any work on method or the theory of education, does the text-book represent practical achievement. The text-book bears the same relation to the work on educational theory that the improved factory machine bears to the report of the factory's board of mechanical engineering experts. It must do the work or give way to something better. There is scarcely a manufacturer who would not admit that all industrial progress is the result of the application of a higher degree of intelligence or skill, or in other words, is the result of education in one form or another; yet these same men by their attitude virtually refuse to admit the actuality of progress in the methods of education itself. This is what any man does who voices the "book is a book" theory. Could anything be more fundamentally absurd? And yet this theory was recently propounded in the editorial columns of a newspaper published in the capitol of one of the eastern states.

The professor who was mentioned in the third illustration did not over-state the excellence of American text-books, but he was not surprised at the lack of response on the part of his law-making friend. He had been watching just such experiments for years. He knew that it was always easier to arouse popular enthusiasm in cheap books than in good books. He had heard the political orator of small calibre work himself up to a frenzy over "the enormous profits" which the "schoolbook trust" is exacting as its "private toll from the education of American youth," and all that sort of thing, but he was not fooled by this kind of buncombe. He happened to know that the United States Commissioner of Education in his report for 1911 stated that the total expenditure for the common schools of the entire country for the year 1910 was over four hundred and twenty-five millions, but of this amount only about six and a quarter millions, or one and one-half per cent., was for text-books and other instruction supplies. He knew, too, that there were over one hundred independent school-book publishers competing for this business, which condition hardly pointed to a "school-book trust" or to "enormous profits." He knew that another self-appointed friend of the people in a neighboring state had recently asserted that the commonwealth could save one and a half million dollars a year by manufacturing its own books,—which naturally called forth from the State Superintendent of Education the reply that the proposed plan was beneficent to an extent verging upon the miraculous, since the total yearly expenditure for school books in that state was considerably less than a million dollars. Pretty careful investigating had convinced the professor that the total amount spent yearly in the country for both public and private schoolbooks was less than twelve million dollars, and that the cost per child for the entire enrollment in the public schools of the country was a trifle more than sixty cents a year—hardly enough to purchase a one-pound box of candy of the standard acceptable to the average possessor of a sweet tooth. As a student of economics, the surprising thing to him was that although the cost of manufacture had probably increased twenty-five per cent. in the last twenty years and the quality of schoolbooks undoubtedly one hundred per cent., the price had probably decreased more than ten per cent.

But such facts and figures never appeal to the popular imagination, and to the political agitator they are distressingly barren of the thing which is his chief stock in trade.

No space is required for an argument of the proposition that the schoolbook of to-day is better than the school book of a few decades ago. Anyone can easily settle this question for himself. All that need be done is to place the books side by side. The facts are self-evident. The schoolbook of fifty years ago was uninteresting, ugly, typographically harmful to the eyes of young children, with illustrations worthy of a chamber of horrors—in every way repellent. The schoolbook of to-day judged by any standard—scholarship, optical hygiene, æsthetics, mechanical technique—represents one of the greatest achievements of the present age, and its method of instruction is the measure of the progress which has all but revolutionized the art of teaching.

The evolution of the schoolbook has come about through a process of absolutely free competition. By a simple law of political economy, the best manuscripts have found their way to the publishers best able to furnish the editorial and promotive agencies essential to the success educationally and commercially, of those manuscripts. The author has gone about his work fully realizing that his manuscript would be most critically examined and carefully compared with similar productions of other educators, but he has also known that he would encounter no obstacles of governmental censorship or political influence. Both assurances have spurred him to his best endeavor. The publisher in turn has gone out in search of the best author to supply a particular need with the assurance that that author's book could compete freely with the books of other authors and stand or fall on its merits in an absolutely open field.

The result of this mutual striving of author and of publisher toward the best that can be produced, is the beautiful book which your child proudly brings home from school. With its artistic cover, its attractive illustrations from child life, and its vital summons to aspiration and service, the very book itself seems to throb with the spirit of optimism and helpfulness, which characterizes the new education.

The schoolbook of to-day is no more the schoolbook of yesterday than the ideals and aspirations of the educator of to-day are the ideals and aspirations of an age which is past.

DECISION IN McCLURE LITIGATION.

George Gordon Battle, the referee appointed by Judge Seabury of the Supreme Court of New York State, in the litigation of the McClure Newspaper Syndicate against H. H. McClure & Co., Inc., both of New York, over the right of the latter to do business as a newspaper syndicate, has rendered his report, which sustains the contentions of the plaintiff.

The grounds upon which the plaintiff brought its suit were: "That on September 1, 1910, H. H. McClure & Co., Inc., turned over its newspaper syndicate business to the McClure Newspaper Syndicate under an agreement whereby the McClure Newspaper Syndicate was to handle the business and turn over a share of the commissions to H. H. McClure & Co., Inc. In return for this H. H. McClure & Co. agreed not to go into the syndicate business.

"In the Spring of 1912, Otis F. Wood, who had for many years been in the employ of the newspaper syndicate, acquired the control of the shares of stock of H. H. McClure & Co., Inc., and, associating himself with other former employes of the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, proceeded to enter into business notwithstanding the existence of the contract of September 1, 1910.

"This Mr. Wood did, although after his acquisition of the control of H. H. McClure & Co. that concern continued to receive from the McClure Newspaper Syndicate, and to retain, the agreed share of the commissions. This Mr. Wood attempted with the knowledge of the agreement of September 1, 1910."

WHAT PLAINTIFF ASKED.

The McClure Newspaper Syndicate asked:

"That the defendant be enjoined from carrying on the newspaper syndicate business, and

"That the syndicate business heretofore carried on by the defendant be decreed to be carried on for account of plaintiff and subject to the terms of the said contract."

REFEREE'S FINDINGS.

The referee found that the agreement had been and now is being carried out and performed by the plaintiff; that the carrying out of the newspaper syndicate business by H. H. McClure & Co. tended to create confusion; and that many newspaper publishers had dealt with the defendant under the impression that they were dealing with the plaintiff.

The attorney for H. H. McClure & Co., states that the decision of the referee will be appealed on the ground that the referee decided the case solely on the similarity of name; and that the agreement of September 1, 1910 was a contract at will, and had been terminated and was void and broken.

A LONDON LETTER.

Special Correspondence to The Publishers' Weekly.

London, July 2, 1913.

We often talk about the common things which unite the book market in England and the book market in America. We talk of the novel as the common denominator between the two, and indeed that is so, having regard to the extent which the novels of one country sell in another. We also talk of how our respective books of history and biography and memoirs, and belles-lettres, and even verse, interest each other. Somehow or other we never seem to think of the large mutual interest which we should have in technical and blue books. Surely something may be done to develop this association, and towards that idea here are certain facts and impressions gathered as the result of special inquiries among London publishers.

A leading American publisher who was here this spring said to me one afternoon, "I have made a deal to-day which will pay all the expenses of my visit and perhaps recoup me for some of the books I have bought on which I shall make a loss when they come to be issued in America." "Oh," I said, "what have you got then? A new Shakespeare or a new Hardy, or a posthumous book by Meredith, or some wonderful literary thing of that kind?" "Not a bit," was his answer, "I am not thinking about literary successes which come, perhaps, as often as one can afford them. I am thinking of something else, of an admirable book which has just been done by one of your technical experts in England on the subject of the use in our day of petrol and other oils. It is all about oils for lighting and oils for driving, in fine it is a book which will be indispensable to governing people of the mechanical world, and that is why it is going to do so well."

Some years ago I happened to be in the back-room of a London publishing house, the room, you know, where you smoke and talk frankly and even confidentially, and I said, "I see you have brought out a little book on electricity. Why don't you make that a series? Electricity is the force of the future, and a series of handy volumes dealing with it in an authoritative way will be indispensable to every young man who hopes to find a profession in the application of electricity as a lighting or motive power." "Well," said the publisher at that time, "there is something in the idea." When I happened to be in the same room only the other month, he pointed out to me a shelf on which there were about twenty little volumes, and he said "Do you recognize those books?" I said "No, not in the least, and judging from what I can make of their titles at a distance, they do not seem to interest me greatly." "They should," he said, "because they have all arisen out of a half-suggestion which you made years and years ago when we published a little stray volume about electricity and were not in the least sure whether we should ever publish another." To cut the story short, my publisher friend had made his first casual venture with an electrical book, into what is now one of the best series of such works dealing with a great modern subject. He told me that it sells constantly, that the demand for it grows almost every week, and that it is likely to become one of his most valued assets as a publisher.

Now, here are two small personal experiences which have their bearing upon what ought to be a much more active relationship between England and America in regard to technical books. You are ahead of us, a good way ahead of us, in the production of them, but within recent years we have taken up this business very fully and developed it quite wonderfully. Most big houses now have a number of new technical books which they keep up to date, if, indeed, they do not make a special department of them. The point, however, is whether something could not be done to make the good book here more available on your side of the Atlantic and your good book more available on ours. It seems a pity that the technical ability which is put into those books should not be available for the man who wants to read them in America, or in England, as the case may be. At the present moment the American technical book is meant for the American student, the English technical book for the English student. Why should that be?

We both write the language that Shakespeare wrote and we both comprehend it very readily when we get it in print. Is the technical world, the world of mechanism, so different in America from what it is in England, that an American book would not be applicable with us? Similarly is the difference so great between the English world of mechanics and the American world, that an English book would not apply and be useful in America? There no doubt are differences, and they are not to be discounted, but surely they can be overcome by a little adaptation of new books when they are published. The book that is written in England will naturally be written out of and for English conditions. In the same way a book written in America arises from and deals with American conditions, but if there were an arrangement between two co-operative publishing houses, one English, the other American, those books could be adapted very readily at the time they appear, to suit the other side of the Atlantic.

Of course this is done to some extent, or at all events American technical books are imported to England in a degree, and English technical books to America, but what is wanted is that the thing should be done on a larger, fuller scale, that there should be a sort of literary clearing-house for this class of book as between the two countries. It would pay those who took the venture in hand on any scale, because there is no safer class of book to publish than the technical book, unless, indeed, it be a book on medicine, or one of the other great professions. Those books are wanted all the time, because they have to do with the life and work of thousands of men. They are not read for fun, not even for general instruction, but they are bought and studied because they are necessary for the men who are doing the world's work to-day. We are willing to learn from you, and perhaps there are some things you could learn from us. Why, therefore, should there not be a fuller, better channel found for the interchange and the adaptation of the infinite number of books which come out on technical subjects, and by that one covers really the whole range of modern mechanism and invention? The sale here of good new books on American surgery and on American dentistry is an illustration of what might be done with other class-books on special subjects. All our young surgeons want to read your latest surgical works, just as they want one day to visit your hospitals. Perhaps one is right in thinking that your young doctors pay an equal compliment to our medical books, because if you are ahead in surgery, we still, alongside Germany, maintain our place in the vanguard of applied medicine.

There is another great class of books, too, which needs to be handled more effectively as between England and America, books on Sociology, to use the term describing them which is now common in most library catalogues. A whole literature on this subject has arisen in England in recent years. One need not be very old to remember the day when you could not have found the word "Sociology" as a heading in the catalogue of one of our great libraries. You would have had to look under "Miscellaneous," or some other general title, for a book of the kind. But now you turn to the word "Sociology," and you have pages on pages of books, not made books, not books merely manufactured, but books written by some of the most eminent men of the day. Now we probably have, thanks to the remarkable progress of British democracy within the past twenty years, more books on the life and labor of the people questions than any other country in the world. You do not see many of them in America, because in an ordinary way there is no sale for them, and so the publisher here does not bother to have them taken up for you. You are also producing a big library of similar books, and we do not see nearly all of them for the reason that they apply to American affairs and more or less are written for American consumption.

Between these two schools of sociological study, however, there is a very common denominator, and the point is, Cannot the wealth of information which goes into English sociological books and into American sociological books, and which applies broadly to the conditions in both countries, not be made available in an easy way for readers and students in both countries? It does not need much imagination to see that here again is a route of the booktrade which has not been sufficiently explored. One might almost say safely that if some enterprising and able publishing house on the two sides of the Atlantic were to make a specialty of interchanging technical and sociological books, it would soon develop one of the largest and most lucrative branches of the modern book market.

JAMES MILNE.

DUTIES ON BOOKS AND THEIR ASSESSMENT.

A LETTER TO THE CHAIRMAN OF THE HOUSE COMMITTEE ON WAYS AND MEANS.

July 8, 1913.

DEAR MR. UNDERWOOD:—

On returning to my desk in New York after an absence of two months in the London Office, I learn that the Senate has under consideration, as an amendment to the book provision of the Tariff Bill as shaped in the House, a provision replacing the duty on books in foreign languages. It is difficult to understand why a Congress that has in plan so important a series of measures for lessening the burdens upon our community should decide that it was desirable, or that it was in any way good policy from the commercial or from the political point of view, to reinstitute a tax which constitutes a direct burden on the interests of literature and of higher education.

Those of us who are interested in the production and distribution of good literature, and in furthering the educational development of the country, succeeded in making clear to a Republican Protectionist Congress that the duty on books in foreign languages brought no advantage sufficient to offset the serious interference caused by such a tax to the literary and educational interests of the country.

I am writing on behalf of The American Publishers' Copyright League to make clear to your Honorable Committee that the publishers and the book trade generally consider such a tax unnecessary, undesirable, and inexpedient even on the basis of a protectionist policy, while its enactment would constitute a material inconsistency in the policy announced by the present Congressional majority and the administration. We look with confidence to your Committee to decline to give favorable consideration to any such suggestion.

I am myself a printer and a book-manufacturer as well as a publisher, and I am expressing not only my individual judgment and that of my firm, but that of the American publishers generally in the statement that we have no need of any special assistance from the United States Government to maintain the foundations of our business. We are quite prepared to accept and approve a reduction in the duty on books, provided that the duties are lessened pro rata on the material required for the manufacture of books. I bear in mind that you have kindly already given personal thought to this matter and that the recommendations in the bill as drafted in the House are in line with the policies advocated by the publishers and by the book trade generally. I take this opportunity of pointing out, however, that within the past few weeks (during my absence in England), the present duty on certain lines of books has been increased from ten per cent. to twenty-five per cent., not by any action of your Congress, but simply under the decision of officials in the New York Custom House. I have for years maintained in arguments before the Customs authorities the contention that whether the duty on books be twenty-five per cent., or more, or less, such duty is properly to be assessed on the actual invoices of the importing publishers or book dealers.

The production of books or of series which are of world-wide importance, and which are suited for the requirements of readers in different national centres has during the past years, and as a result of larger international communication between authors and publishers, materially increased. Such international publishing undertakings are of direct importance and service for the literary and educational interests of our citizens as of readers throughout the world. If the cost of authorship and of illustrations can be divided between two, or three, or four separate editions, the total cost of the books is proportionately lessened, and the price to the reader or student is proportionately reduced. In the case of such series, published in London as well as in New York, for which the protection of copyright may not be required, there is also an important saving in the cost of the typesetting which can be divided between the two markets. It is, therefore, an increasing practice for English and American publishers to divide the edition printed of a work of importance, and particularly of a work containing illustrations. For such books, reprinting by unauthorized publishers is difficult, and there is no necessity, therefore, for duplicating the typesetting in order to secure the protection of American copyright.

In taking over one-half of the total edition printed, one thousand copies, or fifteen hundred copies, or more, as the case may be, the American publishers ought to be called upon to pay duty on an invoice which represents his own actual outlay. The purchase invoice in such a case covers one-half of the actual cost of production, and the duty, whether twenty-five per cent. under the present rate, or fifteen per cent. under your own proposed and desirable amendment, should be assessed upon this actual cost price of the books landed in New York.

The Customs authorities have, however, from time to time attempted to apply to books regulations which may be fitting for other classes of manufacture, but which are as a rule entirely inapplicable to books. They talk about "the selling price" or "wholesale price" in the market of origin. There is, however, no selling price or wholesale price in England for a supply of a thousand copies or fifteen hundred copies which constitutes half of the edition of a book produced under such an international arrangement. If the duty is imposed upon the price at which the English publisher sells supplies of such books to an English dealer in lots of one dozen, or in lots of fifty, the cost to the American publisher is so great that the enterprise becomes undesirable and impracticable. It is not to the interests of the American community that such undertakings be discouraged, but the present rulings of the Customs authorities can have no other result.

It had been decided a year or more back (under a Republican administration) that the cost invoices should be accepted as the basis for duty, with the restriction that such cost must not be less for books imported in sheets than fifteen per cent. of the English retail price, and for books imported in cloth thirty per cent. of such price.

While any reference to an English retail price is, as indicated, an absurdity, this limitation was accepted as leaving a practicable working arrangement.

A few weeks back, however, the Customs authorities issued a regulation providing that the purchase invoice could not be accepted as a basis for duty unless and until the price had been raised, for books imported in sheets, to seventeen and a half per cent. of the English retail and for books taken over in cloth covers, to forty per cent. of the English retail. This is an increase in the cost landed in the United States of nearly five per cent. for books imported in sheets, and of about thirty-three and a third per cent. for books imported in covers. If this regulation continues in force after the enactment of the Underwood Tariff Bill, the reduction in the duty arrived at by your Committee, from twenty-five per cent. to fifteen per cent., will be nullified or largely offset for a very important portion of the importations.

It is difficult to understand the policy of a fiscal system which, while undertaking to diminish the duty in one provision of the law increases it in another division of the law, or of the regulations.

I am also seriously concerned at another change that has been proposed in the Senate in the tariff bill as shaped by your Committee.

I have for many years been a member of the Free Art League. We had succeeded after years of effort in convincing a Republican Protectionist Congress that the tax on art was uncivilized and indefensible. We secured, as you understand, a remission of this tax, with the reservation that the tax should still be assessed upon works of art produced within twenty years of the date of importation. The Senate has now advanced this limit to fifty years, at the same time increasing the rate of duty from ten per cent. to twenty-five per cent. Such a change is assuredly a step backward in the direction of barbarism and is contrary to the interests of our American community.

Submitting for consideration at your convenience these several suggestions and protests, I am, with much respect and with cordial appreciation of the importance and service to the country of your skilled and arduous labour,

Your obedient servant,

GEORGE HAVEN PUTNAM.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE QUESTION OF LIBRARY DISCOUNTS.

New York City, July 22, 1913.

Editor The Publishers' Weekly.

At the annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association, May 1911, a representative of the American Library Association, invited the booksellers to appoint a committee to meet a similar committee of the American Library Association, the purpose being that these committees should take up and endeavor to arrange the questions at issue between the two associations. The committee was appointed. The two met. The all important proposition made by the library committee was—

That the booksellers concede the libraries a better discount than 10 per cent., the rate now given on new net books. It was "up to" the bookseller to accept or decline.

This is the whole question at issue, and one that involves no sentiment, and very little argument—it is simply a question of dollars and cents. Can the booksellers afford to do it? It is the part of the booksellers to prove that they cannot, and of the librarians to prove that they can. This can only be done by figures, showing actual results of a business, in profit and loss.

The booksellers have performed their part by submitting facts and figures, giving in detail just what the library business costs the bookseller. No such facts and figures were supplied by the library committee, to prove that the booksellers' committee was wrong in their presentation of the case. They expressed their view as follows, when other figures along the same lines were submitted.

"These figures differed in no particular from those which were formerly submitted, and which are a part of this report, and which we believe, are a false basis of an exaggerated cost of doing library business, and of misleading statements as to discounts allowed by the publishers to booksellers on new fiction.

Again

"You state in your letter that you have shown us (the library committee) everything about your business, the discounts you get, the expense of doing business, etc.

"The trouble is, that we (the library committee) do not agree upon your basis for the figures being correct. The discounts which you stated absolutely as the best which were being received by the booksellers, we have positive knowledge of being incorrect."

As stated, no efforts were made by the library committee to substantiate these remarkable statements, by facts or figures, in spite of many invitations to do so.

All the facts and figures that were presented to the library committee were most carefully compiled; they were gone over by expert accountants, and were accepted by booksellers and publishers, who, having practical knowledge of the prevailing conditions, knew that they represented the true facts of the case. None of these statements or figures has been refuted by any in the trade. As a matter of fact, the conditions shown aided very materially in increasing the volume of net books published.

Any statements made by the booksellers' committee regarding cost of stock, methods of buying, publishers' terms and conditions, could easily have been verified and the validity of the conclusions drawn from the figures presented could have been proved. The library committee were not strangers to the book-buying conditions surrounding booksellers. Their trade acquaintances in New York or Buffalo would cheerfully have given them all the information needed if requested to do so. It was open to them by invitation to obtain any desired proof from the booksellers' library committee. They did not accept the invitation.

It is doubtful if the chairman of the library committee—or other members of the committee—really understood or figured out the statistics submitted, in view of the following comments made by him:

"It was not just to charge 28 per cent. for doing library business, or even if you should put it at 28 per cent. or 30 per cent. or 15 per cent., that such percentage ought not to be figured on the FULL RETAIL price of the books sold."

This, of course, was not done. The percentages, as the tables show, were figured on the selling price to the libraries, thus, a $1.30 book, full retail price, less 15 per cent., is $1.11; 28 per cent. of $1.11 is 31 cents; the cost of the book to the bookseller, at the maximum discount, is 82 cents; 82 cents, the cost of the book, plus the cost of selling it, 31 cents, added together, makes a total cost to the bookseller of $1.13, for which he gets from the library, $1.11, a net loss to the bookseller of .02 cents.

In all the statistics submitted, no allowance is made for depreciation of stock, fixtures, bad accounts, etc., etc. In addition, for the benefit of the library committee, that they themselves could see how trading conditions would be under any view they chose to take as to expense of doing business, the same figures submitted, were calculated at varying expense costs of 28 per cent., 20 per cent., 15 per cent., 10 per cent., and 5 per cent. The booksellers' committee had every reason to suppose that the figures submitted would show the library committee beyond all peradventure of a doubt, why the booksellers could not give a better discount than 10 per cent. on new net books.

At the solicitation of the library committee, a meeting was held in New York, November 21, 1912. The usual arguments had been gone over without any concession from either side. In order to get somewhere in the controversy, and change the line of argument, the booksellers' committee asked, if 15 per cent. would be satisfactory. To this the library committee replied that it would. Considerable argument took place, and it was suggested that this should apply only to new net fiction during any calendar year. The booksellers' committee agreed to submit this proposition to the other active officers of the American Booksellers' Association for their consideration and decision. This was done, and they all decided in the negative, and the library committee was so informed. The booksellers' library committee, did all that they had agreed to do.

In order that the library committee might fully understand what there was in the proposition of 15 per cent. to the bookseller, figures again were submitted as follows, a few days after the meeting.

SELLING NEW NET FICTION TO LIBRARIES AT 15% DISCOUNT.

Cost of doing business 28% on Sales (more often 30%).

Price of Book, $1.30 net. Discount to Bookseller 30% and 10% in quantities.

			82	Cost to Bookseller, 1.13

Cost of doing business 25% on Sales (Possible in some few instances).

.82	1.11	.28	.82	Sold to Library....1.11
			.28	Cost to Bookseller, 1.10
			1.10

Net gain of 1 cent to the Bookseller on the $1.30 book.

Net gain of 7 cents to the Bookseller on the $1.30 book. (These figures were not printed in the Library Committee report).

A letter of protest was received from the library committee, accusing the booksellers' library committee of changing its mind; of bad faith in not keeping its "agreement," etc., etc. In answer to this letter, the following reply was sent by the chairman of the booksellers' library committee.

New York, March 10, 1913.

As promised at our meeting, November, 1912, I referred the matter we discussed at that time, viz.: whether the booksellers could increase the discount to libraries from 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. on new net fiction published during any one year.

I regret to say that after very careful consideration and with every desire to give the libraries the best discount possible, all of those to whom this proposition was submitted have declared that it is impossible to give a better discount than they are now giving, viz.: 10 per cent. Even at this rate of discount, the library business is done practically at cost, and in many cases at an actual loss.

The library committee of the American Booksellers' Association deeply regret that the facts and figures showing the actual condition of their business, as to their purchases, discounts and their profit and loss, which were placed openly and candidly before your committee, personally, by statistics and by letter, were treated by your committee with the reply, November 29, 1912, as follows:

"You state in your letter that you (the library committee of the American Booksellers' Association) have shown us everything about your business, the discounts you get, the expense of doing business, etc.

"The trouble is that we (the committee of the American Library Association) do not agree upon your basis for the figures being correct. The discounts which you stated absolutely as the best which were being received by the booksellers, we have positive knowledge of being incorrect."

This, being the view of your committee, we are placed in a very embarrassing position, and it would seem that no further presentation of the case from our view point will avail at present.

I would suggest, however, that our business s no hidden secret. All the facts stated by us, you can gather for yourselves from easily available sources. If we are in error in our statistics, or have drawn wrong conclusions, and if we are really making a profit instead of selling at cost or at a loss on the library business as a whole, you will please us beyond measure by showing us our error.

I would ask, if agreeable to you, that our statistics and letters submitted to your committee, be placed before your association, in order that they may clearly see and understand the position of the booksellers of the United States in this discussion.

I desire to express to the members of your committee, whom we have met, and to you, personally, our high appreciation of the courtesy and consideration shown by you in our meetings and correspondence, and that we all deeply regret that at the present, we have not come together. We feel sure, however, that this happy event will not be much longer delayed, when the librarians fully understand the situation of the booksellers.

In closing, let me say, that the booksellers of the United States desire the closest relations with all the libraries of the United States, large and small; that they are now dividing with them on such business as they obtain the meagre profit the booksellers make when they do make any, and that the libraries would not ask more, did they know the true facts of the case. They feel they can be of assistance and value to every library in their community, and that the libraries should aid and support the local bookseller, to the fullest extent, to their mutual advantage.

Wih kindest regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,

CHARLES E. BUTLER.

For the Library Committee of the American Booksellers' Assn.

The following statement was also made to the library committee, by the library committee of the American Booksellers' Association:

"That if all the booksellers of the United States for a period of one year, supplied all the libraries of the United States with all works of current fiction, at 15 per cent. discount from the published price, and

"If all the booksellers of the United States bought of the publishers all such current fiction for the period of said year, at the average maximum quantity discount, viz., 30 and 10% on every single copy purchased by the booksellers during that year, they could not even then make any profit, but on the contrary, a loss, unless by extraordinary effort, they could dig it out of their expense account, to the detriment of their personal welfare and the success of their business."

The booksellers' library committee are not convinced they are in error in their statement that,

"A great majority of the libraries are created and supported by direct taxation, by charitable contributions, endowments, legacies, and the like."

We fairly believe the above statement is somewhat substantiated by the library committee's statement,

That the local bookseller should be encouraged, but not at the expense of the taxpayers, through the library.

We do not believe it just that the bookseller should be mulcted for the benefit of taxpayers and librarians, whom they are likewise proportionately taxed to help support.

"The library committee, on book buying, state that they might, in the immediate future, be of service to the libraries by calling their attention to the advantages of buying many replace books from booksellers who are desirous of obtaining and keeping the library business and to those who deal in remainders and second-hand books, both here and abroad."

This intimation of a dire future for the bookseller, by the help of the library committee, we do not think will avail much, as the libraries have been doing this very same thing for these many years. All of which they have a perfect right to do, and would be negligent in their duties to their taxpayers if they did not do so. The booksellers' library committee do not in the least object to this; it is not within their power or province to say, when, where, or of whom the library shall buy.

The library committee's statement, "We believe that there is nothing to be gained by further negotiation with the booksellers' association committee with libraries, as it is now constituted, was somewhat anticipated in the booksellers' library committee's letter of March 10, 1913, as follows:

"This being the view of your committee, we are placed in a very embarrassing position, and it would seem that no further presentation of the case from our view point will avail at present."

The libraries, in recognition of their being large buyers in the aggregate, have been given discounts on new net books of 10 per cent., and on non net books anywhere from ⅓ to 40 per cent. discount. This concession is accorded to no one else outside the trade. We do not see why libraries should demand the discount that booksellers receive.

We are informed and believe, that the English libraries receive no discount from English booksellers or publishers on new net books, but buy at the full published price.

We believe that very few librarians hold the same views as expressed by the present library committee in their relations to the bookseller.

We deeply regret that our combined efforts and labor for the last two years have seemingly came to naught. A good deal of hard work and thought has been given to this matter, especially by the booksellers' library committee, upon whom the burden rested to prove to the American Library Association, that booksellers could not afford to give a better discount. We fully believe we have proved our contention. We believe our figures and statements are absolutely correct, and we believe the attitude of the present library committee is due chiefly to the fact that they have not given the statistics of the booksellers' library committee, which are vital to the issue, that due and careful con sideration to which they were entitled. We feel, there is only one question to be discussed and settled, namely, Can the booksellers afford to give a larger discount? All other questions advanced are mere side issues.

We refer this entire matter to all librarians, in and out of the American Library Association, and request each, for himself, to analyze the figures and statements, with pencil and pad in hand, and find out for himself whether the booksellers' library committee is right or wrong. We refer them to every bookseller in their community who we are sure, will give all the information the librarian may desire. We appeal to every bookseller in these United States to study this entire situation, and take up the matter with the librarians in their community, for their mutual good.

The entire matter, facts, figures and letters, giving fully both sides of the library question, was dealt with at the annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association, May, 1913. Does it seem credible that all those present, booksellers of long experience, who for several years had been familar with the figures submitted to libraries, as well as to themselves, would have allowed them to be used, if they were false and misleading, as the library committee contend they are? On the contrary. A motion was made, seconded and unanimously carried that the report of the booksellers' library committee on the library question be accepted by the convention, and the same committee be continued.

In view of this the Booksellers' Library committee express to the American Library Association their earnest desire to bring this matter to a happy issue between booksellers and librarians, and will be glad to meet either the present library committee or any other committee which may be appointed by the American Library Association.

Respectfully,

CHARLES E. BUTLER,
For the Library Committee of the American Booksellers' Assn.

POSTAL-EXPRESS MATTERS.

PARCELS POST IMPROVEMENTS AND THE OPPOSITION TO THEM.

PLANS for extension, improvement, and reduction in rates of the parcel post were announced July 19, by Postmaster General Burleson. The changes, which are to become effective August 15, include an increase from 11 pounds to 20 pounds in the maximum weight of parcels; a material reduction in the postage rates in the first and second zones, and the abandonment of the parcel post map as a means of computing rates and the substitution for it of a rate chart individualized to every Post Office in the United States. The plans contemplate the purchase of a large number of automobiles to be used exclusively for the delivery of parcel post matter.

While for the present, the maximum weight limit of 20 pounds and the reduction in rates will apply only to the first and second zones, from any given Post Office—a distance of about 150 miles—the changes directed to-day constitute the first long step toward a universal extension of the system and a general reduction in the rates.

"It is my expectation and belief," said Mr. Burleson, "that eventually the postal service will handle practically all of the small package transportation business in the United States. The maximum weight limit, extended now from 11 to 20 pounds, I expect to see increased to 100 pounds, and experience may demonstrate the practicability of handling the parcel business at even lower rates than we now propose.

"In the making of extensions and reductions of rates it is necessary for us to proceed with caution, so as to afford ample opportunity to prepare for the increased business."

Statistics collected by the department show that quite one-third of the total number of parcels mailed are handled within the proposed first and second zones, and the Postmaster General believes the increase in the weight limit and the reduction of the rates of postage in the first and second zones, as proposed, will benefit greatly more than one-third of the public; and that the producer, the consumer, and the local merchant will profit materially by the changes. He points out, too, that the farmers, who were led to anticipate much benefit from the parcel post service, will be afforded a cheap means of transporting their products directly to the consumer, and that the local merchant whose trade does not justify the employment of extensive delivery service, also will be benefited, as the system will put him in close touch with his customers.

At the outset it was estimated that 300,000,000 parcels would be handled during the first year of the operation of the parcel post system, but it now appears from the statistics that, influenced by the changes proposed today, the number of parcels carried during the ensuing twelve months will be more than double the original estimate.

Since Post Master General Burleson's announcement several members, both of the House and Senate, have expressed themselves as opposed to the changes suggested and have denied the Post Master General's power to make them. Yesterday the latter appeared before the Senate committee on Post Offices to explain his changes.

The Post Master General states that he believes he is acting in response to widespread public demand, and that he is empowered to act by the parcels post law itself.

TRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

NORTH CAROLINA BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS MEET.

THE annual meeting of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Association of North Carolina was held in Charlotte, that State, on June 24. In addition to the transaction of routine business, important resolutions were adopted looking to the correction of some book and stationery trade troubles, notably the small discounts allowed by certain manufacturers and the inadequate discounts allowed by publishers of school books. The members of the association were requested to sign no contracts providing for a smaller discount than 30 per cent. and freight, or its equivalent. Resolutions were also adopted affecting the school book business.

Officers were elected as follows: H. Taylor Rogers, of Asheville, president; Chas. S. Stone, of Charlotte, vice-president, and E. S. Wills, seoretary-treasurer. The above, with D. C. Love, of Wilmington; M. E. Newsome, of Durham; C. H. Robinson, of Charlotte, and W. H. Watkins, of Winston-Salem, constitute the board of directors.

PERSONAL NOTES.

FREDERICK TREVOR HILL, author of "Lincoln the Lawyer," and a well-known New York lawyer, is spending the summer abroad. His, "The Thirteenth Juror" will be issued in the fall.

MEREDITH NICHOLSON, the well-known Indiana novelist, has just finished a new story which will be published in the early fall by Houghton Mifflin Co. Mr. Nicholson will spend the rest of the summer with his family at Makinac Island, Mich.

CLARENCE WOLCOTT, of Syracuse, spent a couple of days in New York recently en route to Europe. Mr. Wolcott sailed a week ago Saturday on the Iremia, and will remain abroad in the neighborhood of three months, and will visit all of the more important cities of Europe.

After many years' service with the Arthur H. Clark Company of Cleveland, the last few years as secretary, John Clark has severed his relations with that firm and, under the title The John Clark Company, has gone into business for himself as a dealer in rare and choice books in the Quinby Building, Euclid Avenue and 55th Street.

THE engagement is announced of Miss Elizabeth Schuyler Mills, daughter of Mrs. M. Schuyler Mills of Pelham Manor, New York City, and granddaughter of the late Rev. Montgomery Schuyler, for many years Dean of Christ Church Cathedral, St. Louis, to Joseph Wharton Lippincott of Philadelphia, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lippincott.

MISS JOSEPHINE NEELY, who for nearly a year has been connected with the book department of The White House, San Francisco, and for nine years was the "right hand man" of the book buyer for The Denver Dry Goods Co., has assumed the management of the book and stationery department of Bullock's, Los Angeles, California. Miss Neely proposes coming to New York in the near future to make her fall purchases.

MISS ELIZABETH ELLSWORTH, daughter of William W. Ellsworth, President of the Century Company, was married July 16, to Frederick Shand Goucher, of New York. The ceremony took place at Esperanza Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth, on Town Hill, in New Hartford, Conn. The wedding was an out-of-doors ceremony, and was largely attended by relatives and intimate friends of the family. Mr. Goucher is a graduate of Arcadia College of Wolfville, N. S., and of Yale in the class of 1911. He is at present studying for his Ph.D. degree at Columbia, being a laboratory assistant of Prof. M. I. Pupin. The newly married couple will make their home in New York.

MRS. FLORA ANNIE STEEL, the English novelist, recently refused to pay her income tax as a protest against the withholding of votes from women. As a result the first manuscript chapter of her novel, "On the Face of the Waters" was distrained upon and sold by auction at Aberdovey to Mr. William Heinemann, of London, for £6. Mr. Laurence Housman, the novelist and playwright, who is an active sympathizer with the women's suffrage cause, secured his exemption from service on the grand jury at London Sessions on the ground of conscientious objection to trying women "while they are not on equal footing with men." None of the women whose names were in the calendar are suffragettes.

BURGLARS entered the Gables, the residence of Charles Scribner, the publisher, on Van Beuren Road, Morristown, N. J., in the early morning of July 18, and stole solid silverware valued at $3,000. Solid ware valued at $1,000 was also stolen from the home of Joseph W. Ogden on Loantaka Terrace, about a quarter of a mile from the Scribner house. At neither place did the occupants of the house know anything about the robbery until next morning. At the Scribner's were Mr. and Mrs. Scribner, Charles Scribner, Jr., and seven servants. In both cases the thieves confined their work to the dining room. All the plated ware was left. Entrance to both places was gained by prying open a dining-room window.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HARPER & BROTHERS announce the publication this week of a new novel, "The Romance of Ali," by Eleanor Stuart.

A NEW story by Meredith Nicholson will be published the latter part of August by Houghton Mifflin Co.

B. W. HUEBSCH is preparing to publish in August the authorized translation of Strindberg's novel, "By the Open Sea."

MESSRS. L. C. PAGE & COMPANY, Boston, announce that L. M. Montgomery's new book "The Golden Road" will be ready for publication on September first.

THE increasing circle of Alfred Noyes' American friends and admirers will be pleased to know that he is to return next year to deliver the Lowell Lectures at Boston.

"THE MAGIC FORMULA," essays and studies by Professor L. P. Jacks, editor of The Hibbert Journal, will be published by Henry Holt & Co. early next autumn.

THE Chautauquan Magazine, the official publication of Chautauqua Institution, at Chautauqua, N. Y., has changed from a monthly to a weekly. Frank Chapin Bray is the editor.

THE staffs of Cassier's Magazine and Printers' Ink were routed out of their offices by fire a week ago Wednesday in the building below them. Their quarters were not damaged.

J. K. GILL, president of the J. K. Gill Co., of Portland, Ore., booksellers and stationers, who was in New York recently, reports business in good condition in the Far West.

OWING to the fact that there is no copyright treaty between the United States and Russia, Henryk Sienkiewicz, the Polish novelist, will receive no share in the successful moving picture adaptation of "Quo Vadis."

EDWARD BAKER, the Birmingham, England, bookseller, asks us to warn the trade not to send thither any sets of the 17-volume edition of Burton's "Arabian Nights," as they are liable to confiscation by the customs. They are alleged to contain copyright matter.

THERE will be a new book by Ellis Parker Butler, author of "Pigs is Pigs," this fall, "The Jack-Knife Man"—the story of a shiftless, lovable ne'er-do-well, who is adopted by a little lame waif.

LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE has been living in France and England during the past winter, where he has completed a new novel of New York theatrical life entitled "Joan Thursday," which his publishers, Little, Brown & Co., will bring out in the autumn.

AN authorized edition of the complete works of Arthur Schnitzler is announced by Mr. Richard G. Badger. The edition will contain upwards of twenty volumes. Three are already in press for immediate publication, and the others will follow in rapid succession.

AMONG the relics of the ill fated Scott expedition now on exhibition in London, is a shabby, much thumbed copy of Mary Johnston's story "To Have and to Hold." It is a strange coincidence that the book, when it was found in Captain Scott's tent, lay open at the chapter "We Go Out Into the Night."

COMMENCING May 1, 1913, the New-Church Board of Publication will conduct its general publication business through The New-Church Press, Incorporated, 3 West 29th Street; and orders for books issued by the Board or for those of other New-Church publishing houses should hereafter be addressed as above.

THE Typo Mercantile Agency now have ready the 35th semi-annual edition of the Typo Credit Book. It has been reset throughout for this edition. It is interesting to note the great growth in recent years of the publishing, printing and allied trades. The first edition of the Typo Credit Book (1896) listed 62,000 names; the present edition lists 90,000.

THE Stewart & Kidd Company, of Cincinnati, have taken over the handling of the following books from the Gas Engine Publishing Co.: "Farm Gas Engines," by H. R. Brate; "Suction Gas," by Oswald H. Haensgen; "The Automobile Pocket Book," and "The Gas Engine Hand Book," by E. W. Roberts; "Gas Engine Troubles and Remedies," by Albert Stritmatter; and "Gasoline Engine Ignition," by E. J. Williams.

ACCORDING to the New York Sun of July 24 (where, "if you see it," "it's so") Jeremiah Curtin, "journalist and author" and "translator of 'Quo Vadis'," etc., died "last Tuesday in Brooklyn." The Sun makes Mr. Curtin unusually tenacious of life, since certain it is that the eminent translator of Sienkiewicz died once back in 1906.

MARY O'NEILL, the heroine of Hall Caine's new story, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," will become an international character on the day the book is published, as it is being translated and will be issued simultaneously in Bohemian, Danish, Dutch, Finnish, French, Swedish. Translations are also in course of preparation in German, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese, Polish, Russian, Spanish, Yiddish. The publishers, J. B. Lippincott Company, report a big advance sale. The publication date for this country is August 25.

JUST before sailing for German East Africa, where he will remain for the rest of this year hunting big game and exploring the interior of the Dark Continent, Stewart Edward White delivered to his publishers, Doubleday, Page & Co., the completed manuscript of his latest novel, "Gold," which will be published early this fall. "Gold" is the first of a series of three novels based upon the early history of California, and, as will be inferred from the title, deals with those exciting years of 1849 and 1850. The other two volumes of the trilogy will take the series as far as the Civil War.

THE literary flavor of the current presidential administration has been attracting no little comment in the daily press, the appointment of three authors and a magazine editor to diplomatic positions abroad drawing attention to the fact. Of course President Wilson himself would be well known as an author, if for no other reason. So would at least one of his cabinet members, while two others have had newspaper experience, one as a publisher. As for Congress analysis shows that no less than twenty-seven states are represented in whole or in part by men with literary or newspaper training.

A NOVEL correspondence device that may eventually do away with stenographers has been invented in Paris, according to a cable dispatch to the New York World. The new device consists of phonographic records on prepared cloth, which may be mailed instead of a letter. The communication is simply dictated into a machine, the result mailed and the recipient inserts the cloth record in his phonograph and listens. The invention was originally designed for use as an exact record of testimony in legal cases; but with further development the discovery can now be used, it is said, for all correspondence, and, as the records can be put on the market very cheaply, the process is less expensive than the employment of stenographers.

MRS. CHARLES R. HARDLESS, antiquarian bookseller at 1 Ripon street, Calcutta, India, is asking for American dealers' and publishers' catalogs. She is especially interested in: Catalogs of Drawings, Prints, Engravings, Pictures, Etchings, Fine Art Works and Publications, Engraved Legal and other Portraits, Scarce, Rare and Beautifully Illustrated Books and Folios, Rare Illustrated Books on India, Incunabula, Americana, Books Illustrated by Frost, Kemble, Sterner, Metcalf, Smedley, Foote, Wiles, Rae, Merrill, Christie, Bayha, Underwood, Fisher, Taylor, Cruikshank, Phiz, Remington, C. D. Gibson, Kate Greenway, Walter Crane, Doré, Stone, Menpes, etc., Sporting Books, Ghost Stories, Travel, Books on life during the old Indian and Revolutionary days, Books on Social Life before, during and after the Civil War between North and South America and Magazine sets, particularly those containing tales by Southern writers.

THE terrible tragedy this week at Binghamton, N. Y., calls attention to such books as "Safety," by W. H. Tolman, Ph.D., director of the American Museum of Safety, and Leonard B. Kendall. Backing their statements with facts and figures, the authors make it glaringly plain that the number of preventable accidents occurring in this country is enormous. "One of the most important phases of our future development," they declare, "is the work of creating an inexpensive handrail at the top of our industrial precipice, to take the place of the unreliable and expensive ambulance at the bottom." Happily, many employers are beginning to realize that not only honesty, but also humanity, is good policy, and it is both pleasant and interesting to read of what has been accomplished in some quarters through the installation of safety devices, the establishment of committees on safety and hygiene, and by similar means. But there is still much room for improvement toward which "Safety" points the road.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY

American Educational List, 1913

This List plans to include all textbooks used in American schools and academic institutions (not in universities, professional or technical schools) and books prepared especially for supplementary reading in primary and grammar schools; also classical and foreign texts, annotated for schools, following as far as practicable the plan of the Modern Language Association, and such English texts as are required for college entrance examinations, 1913-15. Entries are under authors or editors; classical texts are entered under editor's name, foreign and English texts under author's name with editor's name in parenthesis. For revised subject classification, and for collective reference to classical authors entered under editors, see the second part of this List, following the main alphabet. The List does not include other English texts (except comprehensive school editions of Shakespeare); works of reference for schools (except dictionaries); nor teachers' aids (except teachers' manual forming part of a textbook series). It is also intended to exclude imported textbooks, except such as are printed with American imprint or sold here in class quantities.

The List omits works out of print or superseded by newer editions, or works obsolete in the sense of being no longer sold in quantities for class introduction, but only in individual copies to schools having the book already in use. For such works see the American Educational List of previous years.

The price given is the "net" or introduction price made by the publisher (with close trade discount only), for which a copy is sent to a teacher or bookseller postpaid. Where an additional mailing charge is made for postage, on single copies, an asterisk (*) precedes the price. Books priced at retail, with regular trade discount, are designated by a dagger (†) in the price column. When there is a blank in price column the publisher failed to give information. A double asterisk () designates books forthcoming and yet unpriced. New books issued since List of 1912 are designated by a double dagger (‡) before title.

☞ Be particular in ordering to specify edition, and to give the full name of the book as entered in this List.

The new L. M. Montgomery Book,

The Golden Road

By the Author of "Anne of Green Gables," etc.

Miss Montgomery's books—"Anne of Green Gables," "Anne of Avonlea," "Kilmeny of the Orchard," "The Story Girl" and "Chronicles of Avonlea"—are in wide demand in educational circles for supplementary reading purposes.

Published by L. C. PAGE & COMPANY 53 Beacon St. Boston

The Horace Mann Readers

A new series that deals with subjects very near the hearts of children; in which is presented a system of phonics, simple, complete in itself and yet organically related to the reading matter.

The readers contain continued stories naturally broken up into lesson units. This results in a three-fold advantage:

First: Cumulative interest arising from continuity of thought.
Second: Ease in reading, the result of a cumulative vocabulary.
Third: Convenience in teaching.

They contain valuable aids to teaching and learning, viz., phonic exercises and charts, word groups and word lists, placed in the readers where they impress the children and minimize the labor of the teachers.

Each step of each day's lesson is clearly outlined in DAILY LESSON PLANS—The Teacher's Manual.

WOODBURN AND MORAN'S ELEMENTARY AMERICAN HISTORY AND GOVERNMENT

For Seventh and Eighth Grades

American History and Civil Government are correlated. Government is treated in a concrete, practical and ethical manner—not as a matter of laws and constitution simply. The principles of a sound and intelligent citizenship are inculcated. European history is connected with American History. The National rather than the Colonial Period is emphasized. Industrial History is emphasized rather than the history of war. The History of the West is adequately treated. $1.00.

ALEXANDER'S SPELLING BOOK

All the words are very carefully graded, both as to difficulty in spelling and difficulty in comprehension. There are sensible proportions of column words and exercises based upon the plan of giving about one-third of the time to dictation. The words in the columns are associated in meaning. The poetry and prose given for dictation work form a treasure-house of literary gems of unexcelled choice and value.

Two editions: (1) syllabicated; (2) not syllabicated, also each in two parts. Complete, 25 cents. Part I, 16 cents. Part II 20 cents.

NEW SUPPLEMENTARY READING

HULST'S INDIAN SKETCHES

WHEELER'S GRADED READERS By GAIL CALMERTON and WILLIAM H. WHEELER

WHEELER'S GRADED PRIMER

List Price, 30 Cents

Cloth, 128 pages, 50 engravings, 28 of them full-page.

The primer vocabulary is small—only 250 words. New words are introduced gradually and regularly and repeated frequently. The sentences are short and easy. The language is plain, natural, and conversational. The thought is simple, childlike, and pure. The little stories are stories and not mere drill upon words.

WHEELER'S GRADED FIRST READER

List Price, 30 Cents

Cloth, 128 pages, 40 engravings, 20 of them full-page.

There is the very closest connection between the Wheeler Primer and the Wheeler First Reader. The plan of the two books is the same. The First Reader begins right where the Primer ends. These books are graded not only from lesson to lesson, but from book to book.

WHEELER'S GRADED SECOND READER

Cloth, 160 pages, 33 engravings, 25 of them full-page.

This Second Reader is so carefully graded that it follows the First Reader as easily and naturally as the First Reader follows the Primer. The authors have not forgotten that the Second Reader children need constant drill on familiar words to keep from forgetting them, and that the new words must not be introduced too rapidly.

WHEELER'S GRADED THIRD READER

List Price, 50 Cents

Cloth, 288 pages, 37 engravings, 25 of them full-page.

The mission of this Third Reader is to continue the fundamental processes of learning to read and to create and foster a taste for good reading. The stories are longer and more complete and more conversational than those found in other third readers. The aim of the authors has been to make each lesson so simple that the children can read it easily, and so full of interest that the children will let the thought and the feeling of what they read come from their hearts as well as from their lips. This is the secret of good expression.

WHEELER'S GRADED FOURTH READER

List Price, 50 Cents

Cloth, 288 pages, 31 engravings, 26 of them full-page.

The length of the selections is a special feature of this book, the selections being long enough to be interesting and to mean something when standing alone. Many of the selections were chosen with a definite purpose of introducing the animate children to the children of fiction. Jackanapes, Cosette, Little Charley, Tom and Maggie Gulliver, Paul and Florence Dombey, and those other boys and girls of story land, should be as familiar to the children as their playmates.

WHEELER'S GRADED FIFTH READER

List Price, 60 Cents

Cloth, 448 pages, 39 engravings, 30 of them full-page.

This book was prepared with the conviction that the love for the best books—books which make us clearer in head, larger in heart, and nobler in action—is better—a thousand times better—than all the material wealth the world can give; and with the hope that the pupils will like the charming people of the book world to whom they are here introduced too well to confine their acquaintance within the brief limits necessary to this book.

C. H. Johnson, Dean of the University of Kansas, writes: "The whole undertaking carried on by Professor Hanus and his associates in analyzing every phase of the New York City school system is perhaps one of the most noteworthy undertakings in professional education of the century. In Multitude of Counselors there is Safety.—Proverbs.

If you are chosing a system of shorthand, take counsel of many. Everyone thinks he knows something about it, and the first comer is about as likely to guide you wrong as right. But if you persist in asking counsel you will soon find that is most widely approved. Fifty-seven years of successful service has proved its worth.

If you want to know what leading shorthand reporters think about it, and what the foremost schools have to say, write to the publishers,

GREGG SHORTHAND LEADS IN THE HIGH SCHOOLS

An analysis of carefully collected data shows that shorthand is taught in the High Schools of 1,470 cities in the United States. Thirty-four systems or textbooks are used.

The comparative standing of the five leading systems is as follows: Gregg Shorthand, 720 cities: Benn Pitman, 275; Graham, 91; Isaac Pitman, 88; Munson, 34. The remaining twenty-nine systems are scattered among 262 cities.

It will thus be seen that Gregg Shorthand is taught in the high schools of 232 more cities than all of the other four leading systems combined.

These figures reveal the real status of progress being made toward shorthand standardization.

This overwhelming leadership of Gregg Shorthand is due to its Simplicity, Legibility and Speed.

BRIEF MENTION OF A FEW OF ITS UNSURPASSED MERITS

The Universal Custom in Lexicography has been to arrange a dictionary in several distinct and separate departments. In the arrangement of the Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Dictionary everything will be found in one alphabetical order.

Two Keys Are Included for Pronunciation; the revised scientific alphabet, and the text-book key.

Disputed Spelling and Pronunciations have been dealt with more thoroughly than ever before.

Compounding and Syllabication of Words have been for the first time, reduced to a scientific system.

In Defining, the Common Present-day Meaning is given first—where it should be —and the obsolete meaning last.
